Personal Equipment

Clause 1.9.11 of AS/NZS2381.1:2005:

Items of personal equipment which are battery-operated (e.g. hearing aids, miniature transistor radios, key-ring torches, calculators, watches, pagers, cellular phones, and remote control car keys) are sometimes carried by personnel and might be taken, inadvertently, into a hazardous area. These items can constitute a potential source of ignition and should not be taken into a hazardous area unless-

- they are verified as complying with Clause 2.6; or*
- the risk has been assessed by a competent person as being acceptable; or*
- a permit guaranteeing the absence of an explosive atmosphere has been issued.*
- they can be considered as simple apparatus as defined in AS/NZS60079.11. (AS/NZS60079.11 defines simple apparatus as devices not generating more than 1.5V, 100mA and 25mW.)*
